

2008-2009 Humane Studies Fellows
Institute for Humane Studies

Sherzod Abdukadirov	George Mason University PhD, Public Policy , 2009	Studying the transition process from a non-democratic to a democratic political regime.
Samuel Abrams	Harvard University PhD, Political Science , 2009	Studying theories of political economy and foreign policy in relation to economic freedom.
Hovannes Abramyan	University of California, Los Angeles PhD, Political Science , 2013	Studying the foundations and complexities of racial and ethnic identity and working to reduce racial prejudice through the promotion of economic competition and cooperation.
Puja Ahluwalia	Stanford University JD, Law , 2010	Applying economics to the study of law.
Gwendoline Alphonso	Cornell University PhD, Political Science , 2009	Investigating the development of the American political system, its foundation and institutions.
Audrey Anton	The Ohio State University PhD, Philosophy , 2011	Trying to understand the relationship between free will and moral responsibility.
Gordon Arlen	The University of Chicago PhD, Political Science , 2012	Studying democratic ideals and political thought with particular interest in the classical liberal tradition.
Andrea Asoni	The University of Chicago PhD, Economics , 2009	Examining the relationships between entrepreneurship, institutions and wealth creation.
Ralf Bader	University of St. Andrews PhD, Philosophy , 2009	Examining the metaphysical basis of Kant's moral and political philosophy.
Elizabeth Barringer	University of California, Los Angeles PhD, Political Science , 2013	Focusing on the relationship between liberalism and utopian thought, especially in 20th Century classical liberalism and libertarianism.
Gautam Bastian	Columbia University MPA, Public Policy , 2010	Researching education policies, such as school choice, governance, accountability and evaluation methods.
Teresa Bejan	Yale University PhD, Political Science , 2013	Studying political philosophy, investigating campaign finance theories and business self-regulation.
Jonathan Berry	Columbia University JD, Law , 2011	Examining legal notions related to freedom of association.
Knud Berthelsen	Tulane University MBA, Business , 2009	Studying market-based approaches to environmentalism.
Jon Boguth	University of Michigan JD, Law , 2009	Studying laws permitting confiscation of assets by the State.
Caroline Boin	London School of Economics & Political Science MSc, Political Science , 2010	Working on free-market solutions to preserve the health and sustainability of the environment.

Evan Bolick	University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill JD, Law , 2010	Studying contract, entertainment, property and constitutional law.
Michael Breidenbach	University of Cambridge MPhil, History , 2009	Studying theories of nationalism and globalization, particularly in the context of the Chinese-American relationship.
Nelson Brunsting	Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand MA, Classics , 2009	Studying notions of trade and commerce in Ancient Greek thought, as well as the public and private education regimes in Classical Sparta.
Matt Bufton	University of Windsor MA, Political Science , 2009	Focusing on policy reforms in healthcare, education and trade regulation.
Per Bylund	University of Missouri, Columbia PhD, Economics , 2010	Analyzing the importance of formal and informal institutions and the role of pioneers and risk-takers in the marketplace.
Brianna Cardiff	Stanford University PhD, Economics , 2013	Examining long-term solutions to America's health care system.
Jean-Paul Carvalho	University of Oxford DPhil, Economics , 2009	Analyzing social dynamics and group behavior using economic and game theories.
Rachel Chaney	University of California, Davis PhD, History , 2010	Studying religious freedom in the context of the migration of the Anabaptists to Pennsylvania during the Seven Years War and the American Revolution.
Chiara Chelini	University of Torino PhD, Economics , 2009	Studying the interrelationships between evolutionary psychology and institutional and experimental economics.
Daniel Chen	Harvard University JD, Law , 2009	Applying econometrics to various legal questions related to human rights, public finance, health, and demography, among other things.
Kathryn Ciano	George Mason University JD, Law , 2010	Studying the factors that make countries more or less successful in a global economy.
Steven Cicala	Harvard University PhD, Economics , 2010	Focusing on applied microeconomics to try to explain discrimination and labor economics.
Clifford Clive	The University of Chicago PhD, Economics , 2011	Evaluating capital markets and economic growth in developing countries.
John Coleman	Harvard University MPA, Public Administration , 2009	Exploring the relationship between rhetoric, virtue and social enterprise.
Nicholas Cowen	University of Oxford MPhil, Political Science , 2010	Researching education policy, including school choice in the UK, the school system and its underlying ideology.
Brian Cullen	University of Denver MA, Political Science , 2009	Investigating the effects free trade has on institutions, individual liberty and economic prosperity.
Adam Cureton	University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill PhD, Political Science , 2010	Investigating the origins of and exceptions to moral rules, as well as their everyday implications.

Michael Cust	London School of Economics & Political Science MSc, Philosophy & Public Policy , 2009	Studying the history of political philosophy with an emphasis on Hobbes, Locke and Rousseau.
Helen Dale	University of Oxford MPhil, Law , 2009	Studying the notion of autonomy and self-realisation in classical liberal thought, with a particular focus on Robert Nozick and F. A. Hayek.
John Dalton	University of Minnesota PhD, Economics , 2009	Researching the relationship between improvements in transportation and growth in international trade.
Anne-Marie Dao	University of Wisconsin JD, Law , 2011	Studying the intersection of culture and the law in free societies.
Daniil Davydoff	Johns Hopkins University MA, Political Science , 2009	Studying the relationship of economic thought to the formation, management, and dissolution of political and economic institutions.
Michael De Alessi	University of California, Berkeley PhD, Environmental Science, Policy & Management , 2009	Studying the evolution of property rights, and their effects on the political economy of conservation.
Heather Demarest	Rutgers University PhD, Philosophy , 2012	Examining the connections between physics, free will and moral responsibility.
Francesco Di Iorio	École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales PhD, Philosophy , 2009	Examining Hayek's theory of self-organization in relation to psychology, economics, sociology, cultural evolution and politics.
Anthony Dick	Stanford Law School JD, Law , 2010	Examining how classical liberal principles can be applied to private and public law.
Jonathan Dingel	Columbia University PhD, Economics , 2013	Studying international trade relations, and the political pressures that lead to protectionist policies.
Zachary Donohew	University of California, Santa Barbara PhD, Economics , 2012	Studying the effects of institutions on the allocation of common-pool resources.
Brendan Dooley	University of Missouri, St. Louis PhD, Criminology & Criminal Justice , 2009	Using economic concepts to understand the criminal justice system.
Emily Ekins	University of California, Los Angeles PhD, Political Science , 2012	Studying how institutions affect political culture, individual behavior, electoral outcomes and economic development.
Molly Elgin	Stanford University MA, Public Policy , 2010	Studying formal political institutions and the role of public opinion in policymaking.
William English	Duke University PhD, Political Science , 2009	Investigating the methodological foundations of social science, political economy in the developing world, and questions about the biological foundations of human rationality and ethics.

Katherine Erbeznik	Indiana University JD, Law , 2011	Working on questions about global economic justice, including reforms to international institutions, trade policy, the administration of global aid, finance and immigration.
Diana Ernst	Claremont McKenna College PhD, Political Science , 2013	Studying the relationship between individual liberty and the public good.
Mark Fedyk	Cornell University PhD, Philosophy , 2009	Investigating the philosophy of psychology and moral psychology and defending an empiricist account of moral intuitions.
Carla Fosca	Syracuse University MPP, Policy , 2009	Studying the uses of land property as a tool for economic development, specifically as it may be employed to provide mass access to credit.
Christopher Freiman	University of Arizona PhD, Philosophy , 2010	Examining the intersection of virtue ethics and political philosophy as well as contractualism and nonideal theories of distributive justice.
Nikolaj Gammeltoft	Columbia University MA, Journalism , 2010	Studying the role of a free press in the advancement of democracy, free markets and individual rights.
Colin Ganley	University of Oxford DPhil, History , 2009	Researching the fundamentals of economic growth, the new institutional economics, and early modern history.
Tim Ganser	Harvard University PhD, Economics , 2011	Studying the benefits of freedom and market economics using empirical tests of the theoretical predictions.
Jordan Gans-Morse	University of California, Berkeley PhD, Political Science , 2010	Working on the development of secure property rights in Russia and elaborating a critique of post-Communist theories of political transitions.
Marc Gersen	University of California, Berkeley PhD, Economics , 2009	Studying how markets react and evolve responses to problems of information asymmetry.
Charles Gibbons	University of California, Berkeley PhD, Economics , 2011	Studying industrial organization and public finance in the context of the American political and institutional milieu.
Bryce Goodman	University of Oxford BA, Political Economy , 2010	Studying 19th and 20th Century European philosophy.
Joshua Gottlieb	Harvard University PhD, Economics , 2011	Studying rent-seeking, its theory, application, and impact on trade and economic growth.
Kurt Gray	Harvard University PhD, Psychology , 2010	Examining the psychological bases underpinning perceptions of individual rights and responsibilities.
Alexander Hamilton	University of Oxford PhD, Political Science , 2012	Studying how institutional and other constraints can be used to modify the behavior of political actors.

Keith Hankins	University of Arizona PhD, Philosophy , 2013	Focusing on questions in political philosophy about authority and justice, about ideal and non-ideal theory, and about the relationship between moral theorizing and the social sciences.
Alexander Harris	Stanford University JD, Law , 2011	Scrutinizing legal conceptions of duty and obligation from a classical liberal perspective.
Tobias Heinrich	Rice University PhD, Political Science , 2012	Studying the different conditions under which certain combinations of sanctions, foreign aid, and military expenditure can be effective or efficient.
Anthony Henke	The University of Chicago JD, Law , 2011	Studying the degree to which property law can explain other areas of the law, including Fourth Amendment search and seizure reasonableness and First Amendment speech protections.
Sara Hinson	University of Virginia PhD, Political Science , 2010	Studying the effects essentialized identity formation and exceptionalized identity politics have on alienation and Tocquevillean individualism in a society.
Richard Hornbeck	Massachusetts Institute of Technology PhD, Economics , 2009	Investigating how individuals react to private incentives to shape social outcomes and what this implies about public policy design.
Haifeng Huang	Duke University PhD, Political Science , 2009	Studying the role of the news media in affecting political control and political change.
Stefan Hunt	Harvard University PhD, Economics , 2009	Studying the positive role of markets, especially financial markets, in economic development.
Laura Inglis	University of Oxford DPhil, History , 2010	Studying the rise of judicial discretion in the early 20th Century.
Matthew Jacobsmeier	University of Rochester PhD, Political Science , 2009	Currently working on the formal and empirical study of the role of representation in politics, especially how voters view politicians who share their race or religion.
Erik Kimbrough	George Mason University PhD, Computational Sciences & Informatics , 2010	Using experimental economics to understand the foundations of property rights.
Andrew Kloster	New York University JD, Law , 2010	Studying the intersection of science and policy, particularly regarding national security and defense policies.
Steven Knepper	University of Virginia PhD, English Literature , 2011	Focusing on 19th and 20th Century American Literature and cultural criticism.
Christoffer Koch	University of Oxford DPhil, Economics , 2010	Studying American monetary policy and credit markets.
Alejandro Komai	University of California, Los Angeles PhD, Economics , 2013	Studying the banking and financial systems during the Great Depression.

Mark Koyama	University of Oxford DPhil, Economics , 2009	Investigating the foundations of institutions, why institutions persist, the effect of institutions on economic performance, and the behavioral and evolutionary foundations of individual preferences.
Magdalena Krajewska	Brandeis University PhD, Political Science , 2010	Studying a number of issues in comparative politics, including civil liberties, policing, identification documentation and surveillance.
David Kwok	University of California, Berkeley JD/PhD, Jurisprudence & Social Policy , 2011	Studying the role of private law in developing stable, efficient governance in society.
Jikon Lai	Australia National University PhD, International Relations , 2009	Studying the political economy of trade and economic liberalization, of economic development and management in developing countries, and the governance of the international economic system.
Sheila Lalwani	Harvard University MPP, Public Policy , 2009	Studying policy issues related to trade and poverty in South Asia.
Timothy Lee	Princeton University PhD, Computer Science , 2013	Studies the intersection of computer science and public policy, especially concerning privacy and government surveillance.
Jermaine Leonard	Georgetown University MA, Public Policy , 2009	Investigating the cultural and institutional foundations of economic and political development.
Carlos Lever	Stanford University PhD, Economics , 2010	Studying social and economic networks and market design.
Mordechai Levy-Eichel	Yale University PhD, History , 2013	Exploring the historical development of liberal political thought and norms in England and America.
Pawel Lisiewicz	Leon Kozminski Academy, Warsaw MBA, Entrepreneurship & Management , 2010	Studying the relationship between transnational corporations and liberal democracies.
Justin Logan	The University of Chicago MA, International Relations , 2009	Working on the distinctions between structural and offensive realism in international relations theory, as well as theories of intelligence and the potential use of prediction markets in intelligence analysis.
Corinne Low	Duke University PhD, Economics , 2013	Examining how the Western world can help economic development in less developed countries without interfering with the sovereignty of the people in those nations.
James Richard Lowery	Carnegie Mellon University PhD, Economics , 2009	Studying interactions between markets and institutions, specifically looking at public goods, financial markets, and information aggregation.

Grant Madsen	The University of Chicago PhD, History , 2010	Studying the development of American economic policy in the postwar years, especially during the Eisenhower Administration.
Marisa Maleck	The University of Chicago JD, Law , 2011	Studying the Constitutional bases of property rights, as well as New Deal-era jurisprudence and its departure from the vision of the Founders.
Benjamin Marx	Columbia University PhD, Economics , 2012	Studying the effectiveness of and alternatives to current social welfare programs.
Rory McDonald	Stanford University PhD, Management & Entrepreneurship , 2011	Studies the mechanisms and institutions used to support and promote entrepreneurship.
Joseph McMurray	University of Rochester PhD, Economics , 2009	Studying the effects imperfect information and voter participation have in shaping our political institutions.
Trapier Michael	Johns Hopkins University MA, Economics , 2010	Studying the economics of health care and investigating policy solutions.
Jonathan Miles	Bowling Green State University PhD, Philosophy , 2009	Exploring the philosophical justification for and value of civil liberties, especially freedom of speech.
Jason Miller	University of Michigan JD, Law , 2011	Interested in questions relating to the Second Amendment, State Constitutionalism, and Federalism.
Noah Millstone	Stanford University PhD, History , 2011	Studying early Stuart political culture and the emergence of political opposition and proto-republican movements in pre-Civil War England.
Jeffrey Miner	Stanford University PhD, History , 2010	Studying the role of government in organizing, promoting, and controlling economic activity in the late medieval economy.
Thomas Moll	Columbia University JD, Law , 2011	Studying the legal aspects of trade policy, with a special emphasis on the trade relationship between American and Japan.
Courtney Monk	University of Oxford DPhil, Economics , 2009	Studying human capital acquisition, especially health and education.
Rebecca Nelson	Harvard University PhD, Political Science , 2010	Studying the political causes and consequences of global economic integration.
Jonathan Newton	University of Cambridge PhD, Economics , 2009	Investigating the transmission of strategic information through networks and advertising.
Zlatko Nikoloski	University College London PhD, Economics , 2010	Exploring the links between democratization, trade liberalization and poverty reduction in the post-Communist countries of Central and Eastern Europe.

Petra Orogványiová	University of Oxford MSc, Economics , 2009	Focusing on economic growth, stagnation and poverty in developing economies.
Ali Ozdagli	The University of Chicago PhD, Economics , 2009	Working on theories of investment, particularly investment in firms and investment in human capital.
Joshua Parker	Duke University BA, Philosophy, Politics & Economics , 2009	Exploring the ideological underpinnings and social effects of the trial by jury.
Daniela Petrova	London Metropolitan University MA, International Relations , 2009	Studying trade liberalization and health privatization schemes.
Laura Phillips	University of Virginia PhD, History , 2010	Studying the rise of the American fair trade movement in the early 20th Century, as well as the legal history and changes surrounding this movement.
Malia Politzer	Columbia University MA, Journalism , 2009	Examining the possible tensions and conflicts between civil liberties, national security and migration.
Giacomo Ponzetto	Harvard University PhD, Economics , 2009	Investigating political and legal institutions to better understand voters' decisions and law.
Christopher Pope	Washington University in St. Louis PhD, Political Science , 2010	Studying American politics and the interactions between public institutions, culture and civil society.
Bogdan Rabanca	New York University PhD, Philosophy , 2010	Investigating the relationship between distributive justice and personal autonomy.
Adrián Ravier	Universidad Rey Juan Carlos PhD, Economics , 2009	Using the economic theory of the Austrian School to re-examine problems in mainstream economics.
Lauren Raymer	University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill PhD, Economics , 2010	Studying the relationship between sound institutions and economic growth, as well as the provision of health care in developing countries.
Julian Reif	The University of Chicago PhD, Economics , 2012	Studying auction design to determine how to minimize public spending on large infrastructure projects; also studying the economics of smoking and smoking bans.
Richard Relph	George Mason University JD, Law , 2011	Studying market solutions to public policy issues, including education, health care, and Social Security.
Logan Sawyer	University of Virginia PhD, History , 2009	Studying the role that law and legal institutions play in reconciling democratic government with the centralization of economic and political power, as well as how law and legal institutions can be insulated from social and political pressures.

Michael Schihl	University of California, Berkeley PhD, Economics , 2009	Studying the relationship between public expenditures and migration in southern Italy; the political economy of industrial organization in Russia; and rational choice approaches to counter-terrorism policy.
Maximiliaan Schillebeeckx	Washington University in St. Louis PhD, Biology , 2013	Studying the effects of the laws and regulations associated with the development, production and distribution of medicines.
Ethan Schrum	University of Pennsylvania PhD, History , 2009	Studying the role of the university in American society after World War II.
Jason Shafrin	University of California, San Diego PhD, Economics , 2009	Examining the economic determinants of decisions regarding the provision of medical services.
Carol Shin	Yale University MBA, Business , 2010	Using economic concepts to understand the role and function of non-profit organizations in society.
David Shlachter	Harvard University MPA, International Development , 2009	Studying the relationship between access to the legal system and economic growth in developing countries.
Ronen Shnayderman	University of Oxford PhD, Political Theory , 2009	Attempting to answer the question “What political order is most congenial to liberty?”
Hans Christian Siller	Yale University PhD, Political Science , 2009	Studying the implications of theories of social justice for democratic theory.
Neomal Silva	University of Oxford PhD, Political Science , 2010	Exploring a number of issues in contemporary political philosophy, including the role of markets in society, what global distributive justice requires, and the relevance of culture to individual liberty.
Daniel Silvermint	University of Arizona PhD, Philosophy , 2011	Examining political interactions from a metaphysical, rather than normative, point of view in order to understand the concept of political legitimacy.
Matthew Sitman	Georgetown University PhD, Political Science , 2010	Critiquing contemporary accounts of modernity, and offering an alternative account that redeems modernity from its detractors.
Eleanor Smith	Dartmouth College BA, English & Philosophy , 2009	Examining the connections between folklore, literature, liberty and nationalism.
Christopher Soghoian	Indiana University PhD, Computer Science , 2010	Studying the implications of internet and computer-related regulations on liberty and privacy.
Victoria Strokova	The University of Chicago MPP, Public Policy , 2009	Studying the effects of preferential trade agreements on the participating countries and on the international trading environment as a whole.
Sarah Swick	American University PhD, Anthropology , 2010	Examines the intersection of Islam, culture, and classical liberalism, as well as the rise of “compound culture” in the Middle East.

Lauri Tähtinen	University of Cambridge PhD, History , 2010	Studying the history of Western political thought on empire and individual rights.
Shahin Talesh	University of California, Berkeley PhD, Jurisprudence & Social Policy , 2011	Analyzing the interaction of sociological and economic principles and the effects this interaction has on the meaning of legal rights in society.
Jing Tao	Cornell University PhD, Political Science , 2010	Studying international relations with a focus on Chinese-American relations.
Elizabeth Thill	University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill PhD, Classics , 2011	Examining the social consequences of state-sponsored art, especially the portrayal of barbarians in Roman art and architecture.
John Thrasher	University of Arizona PhD, Philosophy , 2013	Examining the implications in political philosophy of taking a virtue-based approach to ethics.
Dustin Tingley	Princeton University PhD, Political Science , 2009	Studying the economic, political and behavioral bases of support for or opposition to policies related to economic globalization.
Aris Trantidis	London School of Economics & Political Science PhD, Political Science , 2009	Studying the effects of economic liberalization on the transition of post-Communist countries to democratic regimes.
Scott Urban	University of Oxford PhD, Economics , 2009	Studying the evolution of the international monetary system between 1871 and 1971.
Rossen Valchev	Duquesne University BS, Economics , 2009	Investigating consumer behavior theory, investment decision making and arbitrage pricing theory.
Kevin Vallier	University of Arizona PhD, Philosophy , 2011	Attempting to understand and resolve the tensions between religious commitment and liberal political commitment.
Gregory Van Den Bergh	University of Oxford BA, Philosophy & French , 2012	Studying the philosophy of Karl Popper, Robert Nozick, Plato and Ludwig Wittgenstein.
Chad VanSchoelandt	University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee MA, Philosophy , 2009	Emphasizing the Kantian elements of Rawls's theory of justice to show that individual liberty trumps egalitarian concerns.
Andrew Verdon	University of Rochester PhD, Economics , 2013	Exploring various problems in applied microeconomics.
Raymond (Cam) Vidler	The Graduate Institute of International & Development Studies, Geneva MIA, International Affairs , 2010	Studying the relationship between domestic market institutions, international trade and financial regimes.
Daniel Viehoff	Columbia University PhD, Philosophy , 2009	Studying the normative significance of disagreement for political life.
Philip Wallach	Princeton University PhD, Political Science , 2012	Studying the historical development of the American regulatory state.

Omar Wasow	Harvard University PhD, Ethnic Studies , 2010	Studying lawlessness and American political development; more specifically, how state-sanctioned zones of illegality have served to strengthen governing coalitions, support patronage networks and resolve thorny political issues.
Timothy Werner	University of Wisconsin, Madison PhD, Political Science , 2009	Focusing on the role of institutions, decision-making and business self-regulation in American politics.
Colin Wilder	The University of Chicago PhD, History , 2010	Exploring the development of property rights in early modern Germany in relation to the Enlightenment and Roman law.
Erin Wildermuth	London School of Economics & Political Science MSc, International Political Economy , 2010	Studying the mechanisms underpinning urban development, including demographic change, land use regulations, and building conditions.
John Williamson	London School of Economics & Political Science MSc, Economic History , 2009	Studying the impact of market-oriented public policy on economic prosperity.
Gregory Wolcott	Loyola University, Chicago PhD, Philosophy , 2010	Studying the epistemological foundations of political and moral theory.
Marek Zapletal	University of Michigan PhD, Economics , 2012	Studying industrial organization in transitional economies.
Alexa Zellentin	University of Oxford DPhil, Political Science , 2009	Attempting to answer the question “What does it mean for a state to treat citizens as free and equal?”
Andrei Zlate	Boston College PhD, Economics , 2009	Studying the effects of the offshoring of production on wages and productivity.